Race on to build truckstop at (or near) the Ruakaka SH1 roundabout

"They had better hurry up as we plan to start in three or four months time" said Barry Trass, one of the directors of Wolf 2008 Ltd., a company which holds a resource consent to construct a service centre 200 metres along Port Marsden Highway right next door to where a very similar development is being proposed by Simon and Nancy Tan.

Wolf 2008 has held the consent since 2011 but Mr. Trass said because of the Global Financial Crises when "things got tough" it hasn't yet been built.

He said prospects are now improving with cruise ships about to come into the port, a proposal for a new dry dock and a rail link to Marsden Point, a residential property boom in Bream Bay and increased Northland tourism.

He said his company had had an agreement on the land where the Tans propose to build their service centre but could not get an approval from the New Zealand Transport Agency for an off ramp from State Highway One at that location.

Told that the Tans have purchased land northwards alongside the highway so they can build an off ramp some distance from the roundabout he conceded that "that might work" but wondered how north bound traffic would access the proposed service centre.

The Wolf service centre consent is for a site 200

EDITORIAL

Shouldn't all Council expenditure be Community Led?

I applied for my superannuation last week. As someone who has worked hard for a living, I find it incredible that now I will be given approximately $300 a week for doing nothing.

I filled the forms in online and took some documents to prove I am who I say I am in to the Ministry of Social Development in Whangarei or is that Work and Income. I am not quite sure. How many name changes has this office had in my lifetime?

I was expecting a bit of a run around: some officious person asking me to come back with still more documents or some complication over the fact I run a business and don't have a firm idea about how much income I will have from year to year, but it all went smoothly. The young woman I was assigned to photocopied all my papers and said I can expect the first payment to arrive in my bank account shortly after my 65th birthday in a month's time. It seems too good to be true.

On the subject of handouts the Whangarei District Council has assigned $100,000 to Waipu for a yet unspecified "Community Led Project." The good people of Waipu have to come up with an idea on how this should be spent and make appointments to a focus group to get this project off the ground with the assistance of a council "community advisor."

I found myself biting my tongue a bit as this proposal was presented to the Waipu Residents and Ratepayers

Association last week.

Waipu has many shining examples of community led projects. We don't really need the assistance of a community advisor to get things done here. The process also seems very cumbersome. Lots of community groups might put effort into preparing bids for that $100,000 and then not win the funding.

Kay Dickson, who was at the ratepayers meeting, had an interesting observation. Kay said she had been through a similar exercise twenty years ago. Three projects had been launched at that time and only one of them; a project involving a group of local volunteers (Kay being one of these) to oversee the maintenance of the town's public spaces has survived. Given the value of the work Tony Solomon and Kay have done over all those years, one out of three is pretty good so let's hope this time around we are as lucky.

Another thought I had as this Community Led Projects idea was being explained is that shouldn't all the Whangarei District Council's expenditure be community led?

Councillor Phil Halse has complained long and loud that more and more Council decisions and expenditure is dictated by Council staff, with much of it determined by legislation passed by central government. There is less opportunity for our elected representatives to have influence over where our rates money is spent. Yet it is local people who understand the problems with their roads, footpaths, lack of recreational facilities etc. who are best placed to help the Council make wise spending choices. We should be able to pass our concerns on to our ward councilors who can then take effective action.

We have a local government election coming around in October. There will be meet the candidate opportunities held in Waipu and Ruakaka and I urge people to go along and listen to what the candidates have to say. But if your concerns are local ones, about poor road maintenance, dangerous bridges, pot holes and dust on unsealed rural roads, the need for recreational facilities such as cycle and walkways, a heated swimming pool, a bus stop shelter then I think your best bet is to join the Ruakaka or the Waipu residents and ratepayers associations and to help these groups become strong and effective advocates for Bream Bay. More than ever we need to work hard to get our local voices heard by the Whangarei District Council.

Marilyn

metres from the roundabout on the northern side of Port Marsden Highway. As with Simon and Nancy Tan's proposal, there would be a café, a restaurant, a petrol station and a camping area. Mr. Trass said he thought an information centre might also be a good idea.

"We have plenty of room there."

However he didn't think there was room for two service centres side by side at that location.

Tom Powell, who has land along three sides of where Simon and Nancy Tan propose to build their truck stop, said he hasn't been consulted and found out about the new proposal in the Bream Bay News.

He said his main concern was the effect raising land for the truckstop would have on stormwater drainage onto the surrounding land.

"There are times when the highway and surrounding land has been flooded."

Trial date set for trio arrested in the Braigh January Police raid

The three people who were arrested after a raid on Waipu Primary Principal Jo Brown's house in the Braigh, Waipu back on 25 January appeared in the Whangarei District Court for a case review hearing on Thursday 20 June.

Police raided the house after a series of burglaries in rural Waipu targeting jewellery and firearms.

Christopher Ngarino and Corey Hanuera, who are being held in custody, appeared on a video link from separate rooms at Ngawha Prison while the 17-year-old woman who was also arrested in the police raid appeared in person with supporters in the public gallery. Three defense lawyers, one for each of the defendants also attended the hearing.

The judge set a trial date for 23 August at 11.45am.

Following a series of burglaries in the district, Police executed a search warrant at the address and found a quantity of jewelry, electronics and firearms along with a significant amount of methamphetamine and other drugs.

The three defendants have been charged with a number of crimes including: burglary, possession of cannabis, possession of methamphetamine, possession of methamphetamine for supply and possession of firearms. They have pleaded not guilty to all these charges.

Mr. Ngarino's Counsel asked that some unrelated charges Mr. Ngarino is facing of threatening and assaulting an ex partner be separated from the charges resulting from the Waipu arrest, which the judge agreed to.

Ms. Brown has since stepped down from her position at Waipu Primary but is understood to have taken up a new teaching position in south Auckland.

Waipu man charged with having possession of and making child pornography

Paul Ronald Leslie Burton, aged 63 years of Waipu has been arrested and charged with two counts of making an objectionable publications and 15 counts of having objectionable publications in his possession.

The two counts of making objectionable publications involve a facebook post depicting the abduction, rape and sexual violation of a young girl.

The 15 counts of having objectionable publications in his possession all relate to photos of prepubescent girls, some of these engaged in sexual acts with men.

Mr. Burton has been released on bail to appear in the Whangarei District Court in August.

The maximum penalty for making objectionable publications is 14 years imprisonment and the maximum penalty for having an objectionable publication in your possession is 10 years imprisonment or a fine of $50,000.

Let's do something for the children of Waipu

To all parents, grandparents and other interested parties, the Whangarei District Council has allocated funding for Waipu for recreational facilities. Peter Blanch, myself and many others have been campaigning for an Activity Zone in Waipu for nearly two decades now and have encountered many obstacles. We are persistent and wish to re-ignite the community in getting behind the facility which would cater for all ages. We are looking for like minded people who would be prepared to be involved in establishing a Work Group to advance the project.

This project will enable our children to be active in the outdoors without having to travel to Ruakaka, Manga-whai or Whangarei.

If you can help, please contact either Peter or I on the email addresses below.

Funding for some

I've read with some dismay in your pape that the local ambulance service St John Bream Bay and Plunket are working together to provide a year's free membership for local families with new born babies (registered with Plunket).

As someone who spent many years working with families with babies and young children mainly in the Otamatea area I feel disappointed. Why? Because it should be for all families with new born babies. What about the babies who are cared for by other organisations and medical services whose parents may also find the St John fee daunting. Please be inclusive and make this free for everyone.

Resealing makes a mess of Kohi Lakes roads

I wonder how many other people are having the same problem that many of us in the Kohi Lakes area are having.

Just over six months ago we had the 'privilege' of having our roads resealed, not that there was anything wrong with the original roading.

Our roads now are an absolute mess. Tar and stones driven and walked into garages and even into the house!

We have complained to the council, had an appointment with the mayor, had an engineer out to view the roads plus had a visit from a local councilor, all to no avail. They agree that, yes it is a mess, especially our culdesac. Excuses have been made that it is because the roading contractors were unable to get the correct bitumix so a lower grade was used. Hence the surface is soft and with the hot sun it remained so. Even now in winter it hasn't hardened up.

Part of the problem in the various culdesacs is trucks coming round. Doesn't matter that they go slow, the surface is so bad their tyres just rip it up.

We have been advised that the answer to the problem would be for hot mix to be laid.

We have also been told that the roads should have been reinstated to at least the original state! Had they been like this three years ago when we first moved here, we would have been complaining back then. 50 plus people signed a letter of complaint to the council so it is not just us with the problem.

A business opportunity for the Ruakaka/ One Tree Point area

With all the new homes being built on several subdivisions in our area now and with lots of new people coming to live here, I reckon a decent garden centre is required, and that it would do really well.

Carole (deceased) and I did reasonably well when we had the Hardware and Garden Shop in the Ruakaka Town Centre (where Bream Bay Reality is now) in the 1990s where we stocked a variety of plants, fertilisers, compost, garden sprays, tools and garden hardware etc.

The local pensioners of the time were our most appreciative customers and I was kept busy sharpening and repairing their garden tools. We often received nice

Police Report

Firearm buy back dates in Waipu and Maungaturoto

There will be two opportunities in Waipu and one in Maungaturoto to hand in firearms in the buyback amnesty. Sergeant Neil Pennington said owners of the now outlawed firearms can fill out a notification form on the police website and then come to the hand in sessions with a personalized reference number, bank account details, firearms licence and photo ID. The firearms should be cleared of ammunition and in a carry bag.

The Waipu collection point is the Waipu Rugby Club. Firearms experts and Police will be present to collect firearms there on Wednesday July 17 from 3pm to 7pm and on Friday August 23 from 3pm to 7pm.

The Maungaturoto collection point is the Maungaturoto Community Hall in View St. A hand in session will be held there from 3pm to 7pm on Thursday 18 July. Sergeant Pennington asks that those handing in firearms take them to the designated drop off venues, rather than to local Police stations. He said both the Maungaturoto and Waipu Police Stations are unmanned a lot of the time and the volunteers who look after the front desk at the Ruakaka station are not trained to handle firearms.

Disqualified driver assaults Police officer

In the early hours: 2.30am on 23 June, Police eventually managed to stop a driver on State Highway One at Ruakaka and a 33-year-old Whangaruru man has been charged with failing to stop when requested to do so by Police, assaulting a Police officer, driving while disqualified and possession of methamphetamine.

Dogs stolen

On 27 June two dogs and a litter of puppies were stolen from a property in Maungaturoto where the dogs were running loose inside a fenced off section.

The dogs are a shih tzu/bichon frise cross bitch aged 18-months, white with black paws and chest named Bella and a red and white, two-and-a-half-year-old pure bred King Charles Cavalier spaniel named Zac.

Vehicle stolen from Waipu Address

On the 18th or 19th of June a vehicle was stolen from the driveway of a house in Shoemaker Rd., Waipu.

Sixteen family harm incidents

Bream bay Police dealt with 16 family harm incidents in the fortnight from 17 June to 1 July.

More than three times over the limit

On 30 June a 31-year-old woman was stopped by Police while driving on Port Marsden Highway and found to have a breath alcohol level of 765 micrograms of alcohol per litre of breath. The legal limit for drivers over the age of 20 years is 250mcg. The woman will be appearing in court on a drink driving charge.

Motorscooter rider hit by car turning out from Ruakaka shopping centre

On 18 June at 6.30pm a vehicle turning out of the Ruakaka shopping centre car park hit a sixteen-year-old youth on a motor scooter. The young man received minor injuries.

Vehicle hits roadside barrier

On 29 June a vehicle drove into the roadside barrier on State Highway One at Mata. The driver had attempted to pass a truck but hadn't noticed the truck was turning right and then swerved into the barrier to avoid hitting the truck.

Please note there will be a three week jump before the next issue of the Bream Bay News which is due out on 25 July.

In response to mutterings about Waipu's new tartan plaques

Since the tartan plaques have been put up in Waipu . there have been several mutterings, not to myself of course.

The response to two factors which have been 'muttered' about.

- Firstly, the size, deemed by some to be too small. Their size is that allowed by the Northpower Network Engineers. My first design was larger and disallowed, being more prone to catch the winds. Obviously they look larger at ground level than on a pole.
- Secondly, they were put at that height for two reasons. They have to be a regulation distance from live wires, and also we hope, out of vandal range. We hope they will add to Waipu's cultural heritage for many years.

We need to build the infrastructure to transition to a low emissions economy

Big thanks from me for your latest editorial, particularly the last two paragraphs, suggesting electric vehicle charging and hydrogen fuelling stations, instead of yet another petrol station opposite an existing one. This is exactly the thinking that we need, to grow support and awareness and build infrastructure for our transition to a low-emissions economy. Well done.

Action needed now to save the Pyle Rd. west waterfront walkway

I am replying to last weeks letter to the editor, regarding the loss of the seawall walkway from the Pyle Rd West waterfront. I am in support of Lance and agree, it was a great walkway.

I have also contacted Sue Hodge at WDC about the walkway. She has said that she is not opposed to an informal walkway being reinstated. However, she seems to think that there is little interest in this.

I feel we have a chance to get the walkway back, by writing to Sue and supporting the reinstatement of the informal walkway. A little effort now, could ensure the path remains for many years to come. You can email Sue at sue.hodge@wdc.govt.nz

Marsden Lions donate to local services

Bronwyn Ashby receives a cheque on behalf of the Ruakaka Fire Brigade, while behind are Kathleen Forsyth, representing Bream Bay St. John, and Andrew Forsythe for the Ruakaka Surf Lifesaving Club

The Marsden Lions held a dinner at the Waipu Fire Station last week and used the occasion to hand out cheques, each worth $1500, to the Ruakaka Fire Brigade, the Ruakaka Surf Lifesaving Club and Bream Bay St. John. The donations were provided from proceeds of the annual charity golf tournament Marsden Lions holds at the Waipu Golf Club. An amount of $4,000 from this event had already been presented to the Northland Emergency Services Trust, which provides the Northland emergency helicopter rescue service. In total the Marsden Lions have handed out approximately $20,000 worth of donations in the past year. Funds have also been provided to: Bream Bay College, Ruakaka School, One Tree Point School, Marsden Playcentre, Bream Bay Learning Community (Pukapuka Party), a student on the R Tucker Thompson and picnic tables at the Shearwater Street Park.

Good ideas needed for a Waipu Community led project

Jacki Cooper, a Whangarei District Council Community Development Advisor, was at the Waipu Residents and Ratepayers meeting last week (Wednesday 26 June) to talk about a Waipu “Community Led Project.” Residents of Waipu are invited to come up with ideas for a small project that would “enable people to work together to make a positive difference” to the community. The Council is offering funding to the value of $100,000. Waipu needs to come up with a lead group to manage the project, which should be completed in a time frame of three to four years. A plan needs to be submitted to the Council and the lead group needs to engage with the boarder community, while working with a WDC community advisor. . Trials of “Community Led Projects” have already been held in Otangarei, Parua Ban, Kamo and Hikurangi. Murals, roadside sculpture, children’s playgrounds and a short walking track are some of the ventures undertaken. Jacki said the money could be used as seeding funding to get more than one project off the ground. She planned to meet with various Waipu groups and organisations before holding a public meeting some time in November.

Moana Fisheries and First Union agree on general wage increases

After the strike action taken by workers at Moana Ruakaka, on 26 April First Union held a mediation meeting with the company at the Whangarei Ministry of Business Innovation and Employment offices on 21 May. First Union organiser Emir Hodzic said, “We are pleased that we reached a resolution that day, and have ratified the agreement since then. “While we did not achieve living wage as a starting rate (and had many disagreements on the issue), we have achieved an upward mobility skills matrix (that will allow workers to move up within the company), and we achieved agreement on general wage increases ranging between a starting rate at 6% above minimum wage to more generous increases for senior and highly skilled workers. “We will continue working with the company in good faith, and are pleased that we were able to reach an agreement that works for everyone. Moana NZ have stressed they do not want to be a minimum wage employer, and they have made efforts to meet workers’ claims, and, at present, we are continuing to enjoy a good working relationship with the company.”

Registered nurse Pam Watt enjoyed her job so much she kept working for sixty-two years

Pam Watt standing in front of the musical clock she was given when she retired as a practice nurse at the Rata Family Health Clinic in Rust Avenue

Pam Watt of One Tree Point has retired after 62 years working as a registered nurse, most of that time as a practice nurse in Whangarei. Now aged in her 70s she is wondering if she has made the right decision as she has thoroughly enjoyed her working life. She trained in Whangarei Hospital in 1958. She left in 1963 for a job as practice nurse with a Whangarei Doctor but was called back to the hospital almost immediately after the tragic accident where the brakes on a bus gave way as it travelled down the southern side of the Brynderwyn hills with a large party of people from Hellensville returning from Waitangi day celebrations on board. Thirteen people were killed and the injured were taken to Whangarei Hospital.

Pam recalls "The hospital was flat out. It wasn't used to dealing with an emergency on this scale. They had to bring in staff from where ever they could. They had just finished building the second wing and that's where they put all the patients."

Pam did three-hour shifts each side of her 9 to 5 job in general practice.

How did she keep it up? Well it wasn't for too long just for a couple of days.

When her children were at kindergarten and primary school she went back to work night shifts at the hospital three times a week.

"It was good because I could be there in the morning to see the children off to school and was there in the evening when they got home."

Her son David was asked by his kindergarten teacher what his mummy did all day while he was away. He told the teacher she was sleeping.

Pam recalls looking after polio cases with people in iron lungs and tetanus cases, diseases you don't see too much of today thanks to vaccinations.

She was called in to help with the recent meningococcal vaccination campaign.

"The children don't like me much because of the injection but then I give them a lollipop and that cheers them up."

To begin with as a practice nurse she was also a receptionist, making appointments and answering the phone. Nowadays nurses do a lot more of the work that previously was the preserve of doctors. There are even nurses who train as nurse practitioners who are qualified to prescribe drugs.

Another change she has seen is the move towards preventative medicine.

"Today we look after our patients health trying to keep them well and to prevent them getting sick. Some practices even have specialist smoking cessation and diabetes nurses."

Pam says, "In my day, a practice nurse would work with just one doctor and together you would look after a set of patients. Now in many medical practices when you want to see a doctor you are likely to get one you have never seen before who has access to all your medical records on line."

Pam has worked for many doctors in her time. She says the doctors changed but the patients stayed the same.

There are examples of families she has looked after through three generations. One elderly woman told her she would need to wait for her to die before she could retire. At her farewell party, Pam told the lady she was sorry but she couldn't wait any longer.

She worked for many years with Dr. Shane Reti and for the last 12 years at Rata Family Health, which Dr. Reti set up in Rust Avenue. Dr. Rupert Scott who she has worked with most recently, presented her with a magnificent musical clock with sparkling Swarovski crystals, ordered from Switzerland. Upon each hour it plays a tune and all its numbers rotate and spin in time to the music.

The hours seem to go by very quickly. Pam is wondering what she will do with her time now. She is thinking carefully about this. Her passion is helping people so she is looking around for volunteer opportunities, somewhere she can carry on with this life long vocation.

A wedding like no other

Many in the audience had dressed for the occasion. Above Mary Farrell in her wedding finery.

After the show an exhausted Jill Mutch is congratulated by her daughter Sarah Shaw (right) and Jo Spring. Jill wrote the script and narrated on the night, instructing the actors what to do and say.

Mother of the groom, Freya Rydell (Susan McRae), on the left, and a cousin Ima Dunwaitten, who is secretly in love with the groom's uncle, help a tipsy Lady Ona Bender (Diony Smith) from the stage.

There has been a murder and a scandalous revelation about the groom but the wedding must go on. Above: the bride Risso Slope (played by Rowan McGregor) and the groom Robbie Rydell (Michael Ramsay) cut the wedding cake.

Right: Bain McGregor is presented with an engraved silver chanter by his old friend drum major David Schultz on behalf of the Northcal pipe band. Bain is stepping down as pipe major after serving 33 years in the role.

The citizens of Waipu dressed up in their finest for a mid-winter wedding in the Waipu Coronation Hall last month (Saturday 22 June): and what a wedding it was. In fact it turned into two weddings with a funeral thrown in for good measure. There were cows and dogs running riot, a bustling nurse with a first aid kit, a policeman and a health and safety person in a fluoro jacket and hard hat laying down the law. Jill Mutch who wrote and narrated the script for Nefarious Nuptials, a Murder Mystery night fundraiser for Northland's Pipe Band said she was very tired after the big night.

The actors, members of the Northcal pipe band or Waipu locals didn't know what they were in for with the plot taking some wild twists and turns with the identity of the murderer a closely guarded secret right up until the final scene.

On adding up the profits she found the event had raised a total of $6,000 for the pipe band.

Matariki activities at Waipu Primary

Bream Bay College Year 13 student Klies Kaiarake teaching Waipu Primary children a game where sticks are passed around in a circle from right hand to left from person to person, trying not to drop them on the process.

Tamariki at Waipu Primary enjoyed some special Matariki activities last week when Bream Bay College students came to the school to teach them haka, poi and titiorea (stick games) with groups rotating from classroom to classroom to try out each of the activities. The children were then all given a hangi lunch.

On Thursday the Waipu Primary kapahaka group gave a performance at the Kids 1 childcare centre and to finish off the school's celebrations Bream Bay College's kapahaka group gave a performance in the Waipu Primary School Hall.

A nasty surprise in the bamboo

Coral Abernethy got a nasty surprise when she and her son started on a bit of clearing up of the section alongside her home in Marsden Point Rd. last month. Someone had dumped a large quantity of rubbish amongst a stand of bamboo and behind an old shed. Some of the rubbish was strewn about, while the rest was contained in six black rubbish bags. It included photos of children, children's toys, clothing, children's lunch boxes and blankets as well as old paintbrushes and a bag full of shredded wallpaper, which had been stripped from a house interior wall.

There were also some vehicle change of ownership papers and mail with several names on them. Coral has reported the dumped rubbish to the Whangarei District Council.

A walk through the back dunes behind the old power station site

A walk in the back dunes at Ruakaka behind the NIWA research centre last week was a bit of a revelation. To begin with the fence had been pulled down and just inside were a quantity of gigantic tyres, which my companions, frequent walker along that route assured me had not been there six months ago. It looked as though the tyres had been set out to form an obstacle course for motor bike riders.

Without going too much further we came across the first pile of dumped rubbish. There were many more. Included in the strewn mess were: several lounge settees (if you can afford to buy a new set why can't you afford to dispose of the old one at the transfer station?), an old fridge with the doors left open and the decaying insulation material spread about, bags of discarded household goods, a pile of ashes including lumps of melted plastic and the skin, head and guts of a butchered sheep, which was beginning to get a bit smelly.

There was also a car with the windows steamed up with a homeless woman and her dog inside. I think the pair had spent the night there.

Fences had been ripped down at multiple locations, there were vehicle tracks all through the dunes including a vehicle entrance down onto the beach, defeating the Whangarei District Council's intention to have a single vehicle beach entrance at the end of Rama Rd.

The land here is held by the Office of Treaty Settlements with Colliers International having a contract with the NZ Government for its maintenance. Bain McGregor looks after the Te One pine forest on contract to Colliers. After a complaint to the Whangarei District Council he was asked to clean up the mess on the land behind the old power station but is waiting on the Whangarei District Council to give him a pass to take all the rubbish to the Uretiti rubbish transfer station.

Bain said last time he did a clean up on the opposite side of the Kepa Rd. he filled the cage on his trailer right to the top and was charged $250 to drop off the contents at the Uretiti station.

Two hundred kg of kumara to help them get to a national league tournament

The under 11 Takakahiwai team with Trainer - Cole Tarau, Manager - Bronwyn Batchelor and Coach – Ed Wilson displaying some of the kumara they are selling

The Takahiwai Rugby League under 11s team has just had received a boost to its fundraising efforts to take the entire team of 15 players to Whanganui for a national tournament in early September.

Coach Ed Wilson wrote in to More FM describing how at last year's tournament in Whakatane the players gained in skills and confidence and the team won the prize for best sportsmanship. He said his aim is to bring out the potential in all his players.

As a result of his efforts the team was granted 200kg of best quality kumara to sell. Some of the kumara will go into a hangi planned as a fundraiser and the rest will be sold off to the team's supporters.

They need to raise a total of $8,000 to hire a bus and pay for their accommodation in Whanganui.

The team is unbeaten so far this season in its Northland from Moerewa south competition, which perhaps is a testimony to the boost attending last year's national tournament gave to the players.

Sports Awards Chairman Ken Moreland said, "We have a great speaker lined up We hope we get lots of nominations and that the 2019 awards night will be the best awards night yet."

Nominations for awards will officially open in October but you can start thinking about them and preparing now.

Not enough players for Men in Kilts rugby

This year's Men in Kilts rugby match, which was scheduled for 12 July, has been called off, due to there not being enough available players to make up a team. Steve Jones, one of the organisers of the annual event, said, "People were going to be away, there was a fishing trip on. We couldn't invite a team and then not be able to field enough players so we had to make a call."

This would have been the ninth year the midwinter masters rugby clash had been held. Steve said he has "big plans" for 2020.

Sponsors and some of the winning connections with the 2019 Northpine Waipu Cup, won by Hello It's Me. L to R: Garry Hannam, Bruce Larsen, Angela Purnell, Glennis McSherry, Shayne Heape and Gaylene Wilson

EVERYONE'S A WINNER!

One of the feature events of the winter in Bream Bay, Northpine Waipu Cup raceday at Ruakaka last Saturday afternoon was again an outstanding success. The track was in very good order despite recent rain and occasional light showers on the day, and excellent fields lined up for the eight races on the card.

The 2019 edition of the $35,000 Northpine Waipu Cup, contested over 1400m, was won convincingly by the classy mare Hello It's Me, trained locally by Chris Gibbs and Michelle Bradley for owners Donna Logan, GS Bloodstock, S Mulcahy, P Shadbolt, and D&R Creed. A previous winner of the Group 2 Royal Stakes at Ellerslie as a 3 year-old, Hello It's Me has overcome some frustrating injury issues that have kept her off the track since New Year's Day. The Darci Brahma mare showed an impressive turn of foot in the home straight to put a winning break on the field and comfortably beat the fast-finishing Hanger, with Go Nicholas third.

It was a great winning weekend for Northpine-sponsored teams, with Waipu Premiers (19-12) and Premier Reserves (22-14) sides recording victories over Western Sharks; and in rugby league Takahiwai Warriors maintained their perfect record for the season, beating Northern Wairoa Bulls in Dargaville (48-34) in a hard-fought encounter.

The Waipu Golf Club is preparing now for one of its feature tournaments, the annual Northpine Bream Bay Golf Classic over the weekend of July 13-14. Contested over 54 holes in Masters, Open and Women's Divisions, this prestigious highlight of the golf calendar always attracts a high class field.

A new trophy for Art'n Tartan supreme winners

Supreme winner of this year's Art'n Tartan Wearable Art contest will receive, in addition to the wooden Button always presented in memory of local designer, the late Alison Turner, this one-off glass trophy made by Justin Calina of Calina Glass in Parua Bay, replicating the Waipu Tartan within it. Supreme winners will keep the trophy for one year and their name will be engraved on a plaque to be added to the stand.

Disorderly behaviour in Waipu

Working bee at the Tip Rd. beach entrance

The Department of Conservation is inviting people living in the vicinity, people who use this beach entrance and the public in general to a working bee planting and mulching native trees and shrubs as well as some general maintenance and weed control around the Tip Rd. car park area on Wednesday 17 July starting at 10am. Participants need to bring along gloves and a spade and to be wearing sturdy footwear. The department has been undertaking a general tidy up of the beach entrance with new signs to make the pedestrian walkway to the beach more obvious, to guide people to use the walkway rather than putting themselves in danger on the vehicle entrance. Rocks have been placed strategically so vehicles don't drive over and destroy the dune structure and improvements to the roadway including the vehicle beach entrance. The Department of Conservation will provide tea, coffee, biscuits, fruit and juice.

On Monday 22 July 2019, the Waipu Genealogy Group will be welcoming Michelle Patient for a full-day seminar on using DNA testing in family history research.. Topics covered in the seminar include what DNA test results look like, and how to analyse them. Bookings for the seminar are essential – see the advertisement in this paper for details. The Waipu Genealogy Group has been around since the 1980s – no-one can quite remember exactly when it started now. The members meet once a month to help each other with their family history research, listen to guest speakers, and work on their family trees.
